

N E W F O R F A L L 2 0 2 4

Texas A&M University

Online M.Ed. Educational Administration in Higher Education

The 36-hour online master's program prepares students to enter a mid-level management position at the college or university level. This masters program is particularly appropriate for people already working in higher education who want more career flexibility or wish to advance in the field. Flexibility in course requirements allows students to explore different career areas within higher education. Coursework includes 21 hours of required coursework and 15 hours of faculty-selected electives. A minimum of one required course will be offered each semester, including summers.

A D M I S S I O N S D E A D L I N E
M A R C H 1 , 2 0 2 4

U P C O M I N G
I N F O R M A T I O N

We are pleased to host late spring and early fall informational webinars highlighting program and application information. We will also feature members of our highly acclaimed faculty who will provide insight in to each of the required courses as well as students from our in-person MS Higher Education and SAAHE programs. Visit eahr.tamu.edu for more information.

TEXAS A&M UNIVERSITY

Educational Administration
& Human Resource Development